

Weedmaps named a best place to work in L.A. by BuiltIn

March 28, 2022

By WM People Operations

For the second consecutive year, Weedmaps has been named one of the top places to work in Los Angeles by BuiltIn. BuiltIn uses a weighted methodology that takes into account both compensation and benefits to determine its overall score, putting a premium score on the quality of the benefit options.

"We are thrilled to be part of BuiltIn's list of Best Places to Work Los Angeles for 2022 and are committed to providing our employees a place where they can do their best work while remaining competitive in the market with compensation, benefits and perks," said Meera Pisharody, Vice President of People Operations. "We will always have a presence in Southern California thanks to our headquarters in Irvine, and we are proud to offer our 'Weedmaps from Anywhere' option that allows our employees to choose where and how they want to work. We will continue to put our employees first and are thankful to be considered one of the top tech employers by BuiltIn."

Originally founded in 2011 in Chicago, IL, BuiltIn is a nationwide community hub that works to help tech professionals research career opportunities, compare salary ranges, and take online courses to grow and develop their skills.

Looking to grow with one of the leading cannabis technology companies? Check out our current employment opportunities and learn more about the Weedmaps culture on our Careers page.